NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

United States Senator Simon D. Fess, Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, State Treasurer Bert E. Buckley and State Supreme Court Judge Robert H. Day, for the first time are really enjoying their part in the Republican campaign, inasmuch as none of these gentlemen have any opposition for renomination. As the result of this happy situation they are not bothering their many friends to get votes for them in August, but we suspect that once the primary is over and the fall campaign is under way that they will show real energy and activity in garnering in the votes in November.

Frank H. Reighard, recently appointed a member of the Board of Censure by Governor Donahay to succeed Dan W. Williams, who resigned on account of his health, has assumed his new duties. It is predicted by his friends that he will make a splendid official. He is a citizen of Wauseon, Fulton county, is a former member of the legislature and has been a well known newspaper publisher for a number of years.

The local circulation of the State Library at the present time is fully as great as it was previous to the closing of the library a year ago last May on account of the vetoing of the appropriation for that institution by the Governor. The state circulation has fallen off somewhat owing to the fact that the opening of the library was not given as much publicity over the state as its closing. After a check up of the books by the state auditor, the library was opened again last September, although employees have received no salary since that time, depending on a future legislature to make provision for the pay roll.

Thomas Edward Bateman, Clerk of the Ohio Senate, who hails from Pike county, has been busy the past several weeks compiling statistics and general information for the use of members when they return next January. He has been putting in a great deal of extra time, so that he will have things shipshape when he starts on his vacation shortly. He is an ardent disciple of Isaac Walton and when he starts forth he will have enough paraphernalia to supply several dozen fishermen. His friends are anxiously awaiting the promised mess of fine pickerel or trout and from the fish stories he has previously told of his prowess with rod and reel he ought to land a few whoppers.

Dr. Alfred Robinson, seriously injured by being struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car several months ago, receiving a double fracture of the right leg as well as suffering body bruises, which confined him to a hospital for many weeks, was a visitor in the Capitol building this week, calling on officials and renewing old friendships. The doctor, who is Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives and has been in public life for over half a century, is just as optimistic and jolly as ever. He is traveling along towards his seventy-eighth natal anniversary and his legion of friends predict that the philosopher and friend of humanity in general will live to reach the century mark.

Warden Preston E. Thomas of the Ohio Penitentiary is kept more than busy these days figuring a way to care for the constantly increasing wards sent to him from every county in the state, the list now having reached slightly over 4,400, the big institution having been built in the first place to accommodate about 1,900. Another new cell block which will care for 800 men is now under construction and favorite progress is being made on the new dormitory and in a short while there will be an exodus from the place when tubercular convicts are transferred to a tuberculosis ward, which has been recommended for the London Prison Farm. Warden Thomas is now engaged in a survey of both incipient and advanced cases and patients will have the advantage of living in the open and cared for under more favorable conditions.

A plan for consolidation of the offices of the Greene County Red Cross and the Social Service League, with one executive secretary in charge was adopted by the newly formed Civic Clearing House at a meeting Thursday in Xenia.

The proposal was made to the organization by J. H. Nagley, president of the Social Service League. The organization approved a proposal of Mr. Nagley that it consider the feasibility of a community chest.

Ohio Conference Meets in Springfield

The Ohio Conference, formed by the merging of the West Ohio and the Ohio Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and constituting the largest Methodist Episcopal Conference in the world, will hold its first annual meeting in the Central Church of Springfield, September 4 to 10.

Details of the merger were planned when these two conferences held their annual meetings in Delaware last September. This action was later approved by the General Conference of the church in Kansas City in May, 1928.

It has been suggested that the total number be reduced from fourteen to ten.

The regular sessions of the conference will be held at the Central church, of which Rev. W. H. Wehrly, D. D., is pastor. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of Cincinnati will preside at the meetings, and T. Wallis Grose, D. D., superintendent of the Springfield district, will figure prominently in the planning and directing of the program.

STONE WALLS WILL NOT STAND LONGER

One of the stone walls of the Fowler residence that was destroyed by fire some weeks ago fell recently and the remainder will have to be torn down. The walls had been built years ago when mud mortar was used. Following the fire the rains softened the mortar, allowing one wall to fall. It is expected that a modern frame residence will be erected shortly.

LOCAL TEACHER DIED SUDDENLY IN CLEVELAND

Friends of Mrs. Minnie Douglas were surprised and shocked Monday when a telegram was received announcing her death in Cleveland. It had been known for a year that she was subject to sudden-rick spells and following closing of school she went to Baltimore, Md., for examination and treatment. Her stay in that city was short and she came to Cleveland and was taking treatment there.

Mrs. Douglas had taught school previous to her marriage and upon the death of her second husband came to Cedarville College where she completed her normal work. She had many friends in and out of the school and was a woman held high in esteem by all who knew her.

SECOND TRIAL FOR MISS MOORE

A new affidavit charging Nellie Moore, 23 years old, attractive daughter of V. H. Moore, Xenia dairyman, with illegal possession of liquor, was filed in common pleas court Monday by Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Marshall after Probate Judge S. C. Wright had heard evidence in support of an affidavit of prejudice against himself and decided that he would not hear the case again.

Judge R. L. Gowdy set the trial for August 17 in common pleas court.

Miss Moore was arrested a year ago and fined $1,000 and costs in probate court on a charge of illegal possession. The probate court's decision and the fine were upheld by the common pleas court and court of appeals and is now reversed by the supreme court on the grounds that Probate Judge Wright had refused to hear evidence in support of the affidavit of prejudice which was made against him by counsel for the defendant.

Miss Moore, her father and Attorney Forest Dunkle and another witness testified in support of the affidavit of prejudice. At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Wright decided not to hear the case again on its merits.

PENITENT WOMAN

Mrs. Rosemary Hall, 76, Xenia, widow, was found by the westbound Pennsylvania train No. 18, at the Xenia station crossing at 8:35 o'clock Sunday night.

Remnants of her body, mutilated under the wheels of the train, had passed over the tracks between 3 and 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

The woman was wandered away from the home of her daughter, Miss Leona Walker, of Chestnut St., at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. She is said to have been ill four years and suffered from hallucinations that she wished to go to heaven. For this reason she had wandered away from the home of her children with whom she lived a precarious times.

Police were called to help search for the woman and they were found Saturday evening by railroad detectives at Indianapolis covered blood and clothing remnants in the front of the locomotive No. 18 when it arrived there. They telegraphed the information back along the route the train had taken and the detectives found the dismembered body just west of the Jamestown, Pa. crossing.

Dayton Lineman Is Electrocuted

Thomas Jordan, Xenia lineman, employed by the Dayton Power & Light Co., was electrocuted Saturday morning when he came in contact with a high tension line on a tower along the E. & O. railway, east of Xenia.

Jordan was hanged 40 feet, 11,000 volts having passed through his body, causing instant death. However, four companions worked strenuously in an effort to resuscitate him, continuing work until Dr. Marshall Best, who had been summoned, arrived on the scene. The doctor pronounced the man dead. Marks on his shoulder showed how the deadly current had coursed through his body. One finger also was burned.

He was engaged in changing an insulator supposed to have been broken by a wire when he came in contact with the high tension line.

Large Demand For Pheasant Eggs

Ohio farmers and sportsmen have made the largest demand this year for pheasant eggs of any previous year. According to reports, the Ohio Division of Fish and Game has recently shipped out 4,000 eggs to farmers and sportsmen desiring to set them.

The demand for pheasant eggs this year was found to be the greatest for a number of years. The division gets innumerable letters from farmers and sportsmen inquiring how they may aid in the conservation program undertaken by the State. The distribution of pheasant eggs, an annual feature of the division's activities, is one of the most popular and practical aspects of the conservation plan.

After the pheasants are a few weeks old and are able to take care of themselves, they must be liberated. In addition to the great number of pheasants hatched and liberated thus by individuals in all parts of the State, a great many pheasants eggs are set at the Roosevelt Game Preserve and the Wallington Game Farm.

With the aid of Senator S. D. Fess, a committee of Xenians which visited Wright air field and interviewed Major Jacob Fickel, in charge of the field laboratories of the army air corps, secured his consent to furnish planes and aviators for the feature.

Major Fickel expects to visit Xenia and look for a site for a landing field. In the event that a 200-acre field can be secured for the purpose the planes will land here. It is expected, The fourth day of the homecoming.

Dr. Messinger announced that efforts will be made to have Secretary of Agriculture William Jardine or Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dunlap come here to give an address on Greene county day, the third day of the celebration. A reception for Senator Fess will also feature that day. Wright field officials have offered to send a fleet of airplanes over the city on that day.

CORONER SAYS RADKE DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Following an inquest into the death of Louis Radke, 45, of 245 Burkhardt avenue, Dayton, Coroner F. M. Chambliss, of Greene county, returned a verdict Monday of accidental death; substantiating his former finding.

Felix Lilley, 40; Herbert Williams, 38 and his wife, Lillian, 38, of 223 Geyer street, who had been held for questioning in the Xenia jail were released from custody after Coroner Chambliss returned his verdict last night.

Radke is believed to have been killed by a Pennsylvania train, near Treble, on the night of July 8.

Absence of bloodstains on axes found in the John Colson fishing camp, near Treble, at which Radke was staying at the time he met his death, removed the theory that Radke had been slain by a blow on the head.

ANALYSIS FAILS

Coroner Chambliss testified that a chemical analysis of the weapons by Prof. C. S. Adams, head of the chemistry department of Antioch college, failed to reveal any trace of blood.

OLD-TIME SERPENTS

Besides discovering the exact date of the birth of the Israelites out of Egypt across Red sea for their forty years in the wilderness, Dr. Kyle has found in old Canaan fresh evidence of a serpent-worshipping religion. It was 1275 B. C., 3203 years ago, when Pharaoh finally agreed to "let my people go" and the famous march began. That was a bad day for the ancient Canaanites, just as it was a bad day for the original Americans when Columbus sailed from Palos. It was their land Moses was headed for, flowing with milk and honey and without room for both the old population and the new.

About all that was left of the Canaanites, when the Israelites got through with them, was the vestiges which Dr. Kyle has lately been digging up. He finds dye vats and other evidence that the people whom the Israelites displaced were well along in the industrial arts. They had well-developed systems of military defense, as the Israelites before Jericho had reason to know. And they had a religion, a religion of serpent worship. A remnant of a fallen idol in serpent form proved this.

This interests Ohioans. The mound builders whose works are scattered over Ohio, but whose character and history remain largely a mystery, were serpent worshippers. At least, some of them were, as the famous serpent mound of Adams county and certain other remains attest. Our mound builders, did they move eastward toward Behring strait and America from the same point somewhere in Asia from which the ancestors of the Canaanites, with their serpent religion, moved westward into old Canaan? Then the Canaanites whom the Israelites were pledged to exterminate were brothers of the mound builders, whom somebody before us exterminated, over whose ancient graves the blithe Ohioan of today walks or, more likely, drives his car. We are bound by blood to the promised land. —Dayton News.

NOT WAITING FOR NOTIFICATION

Apparently neither of the political parties are going to wait for the official notification celebration before starting the campaign. While the leaders of the parties may not be so active, yet surface indications are that a full head of steam has been provided and things are now in motion.

Daily papers, magazines and the rural press are all discussing the campaign from one angle or another. There is speculation about the solid south and what it will do but the most conservative regardless of party lines see little or no chance of changing the electoral vote in the south. Kentucky and Tennessee have in times past gone Republican and there are good indications that such will be the case this year. While hundreds of voters on the south may scratch tickets this year it is something else to change the electoral vote.

Both parties have outstanding candidates this year, and as the United Presbyterian pointed out last week, the strength of Candidate Smith must not be under-estimated. There are different issues this year before the voters and in some respects no real precedent to follow. Herbert Hoover will draw from both parties but an element of his party strength will no doubt be drawn to Smith.

Giants in the business world new to politics have entered the political contest. From the party standpoint we find new names and new faces. Captains of industry that heretofore have stood by the Republican nominee are now interested in the Candidacy of Gov. Smith. The financial world stands back almost afraid to offer expression.

The general belief is that Candidate Hoover will hold all of the eastern states unless it be New York and New Jersey. Some even think Ohio may be a battle ground. It was in Ohio that Hoover won his hardest victory in the primary. No candidate ever faced as many untrue campaign stories about his Americanism, his stand on prohibition and the farm problem, yet Hoover won over the boogie forces that used so-called reform organizations to attempt to drag him down. The hard-boiled politicians in the Ohio gang had no use for any man of Hoover's type. Only a few that opposed Hoover have openly committed themselves at this date for Republican success this fall. This element is yet sore and is sulking over the primary defeat.

Senator Fess tells us that Hoover will sweep the West and that even Missouri and Oklahoma may be counted upon to line up for Hoover. While it is early to make predictions we can not at this time see the situation as anything but favorable to the election of Hoover. He was the strongest in the early primaries over the country and in the convention. He is without question one of the biggest men in the country with a long list of accomplishments. With all this he faces the most aggressive candidate the Democrats have nominated in fifty years and Republicans must muster every vote to make sure the victory.

THE STRAW VOTE IS IN ACTION

Some swear by the straw vote preceding elections; others smile and say it amounts to nothing. As was to be expected the straw vote is now on in different sections of the country. It is a preliminary canvass that leaders of the two parties watch closely as few straw votes have in the past proved untrue to the forecast.

We notice the result in Illinois and find that Al Smith is very strong in Chicago. But the vote from Decatur, Ill., tells an entirely different story. Herbert Hoover is leading strongly in an agricultural section in a state that opposed his nomination in the convention.

Secretary Hoover visited with Vice-President Dawes and we find leaders in that state that were demanding farm relief now out in front for the Secretary. This is encouraging and shows that once the proposed farm relief measure was thoroughly investigated, it was not what it was represented to be, and of course cannot be made a political issue.

The more the situation is canvassed the more the public is convinced that anti-prohibition advocates had much to do with keeping up the tin-pan noise for the so-called farm relief bill that President Coolidge vetoed.

The Herald has not yet been sorry that we were active during the primary in urging support for Hoover. The more the old line politicians in Ohio fought him, the more we were convinced he was the kind of a man the country needed.

WHEN IS A MAN DRY AND WHEN WET?

It is our candid opinion that the entrance of Myers Y. Cooper in the race for the Republican nomination for governor was for no good purpose, considering the state at large. His terrible defeat two years ago should be a warning that such is possible again and the victory go as it has been the past twenty years in the main to the Democrats. With candidates of equal calibre we think the Republican nominee should have the preference. From a party standpoint the party wants an outstanding candidate that can win this fall, not a nominee to quit some political organization in his home county.

The Herald gave support two years ago to Cooper but we have not been convinced that he should be trusted again with the nomination. Viewing the situation as it is Cong. James Begg certainly comes first. In Congress, he has voted for every dry measure, and this of course is more than Cooper has had the opportunity of doing. The latter has talked much about prohibition but his recent act in being brought out this time by the wet Republican organization in Hamilton county puts him in a different class. The Hamilton county Cox-Hynicka crowd is appealing to the state to back Cooper.

Monday the Cincinnati crowd put out its platform and again gives Cooper a rousing endorsement but says nothing about him standing for prohibition. It will be interesting to read the eleventh plank in the platform: "We favor the preservation of all the liberties guaranteed by the Constitution and we view with distrust all efforts to invade the personal freedom of our citizens." Endorsing personal liberty should open the eyes of the dry folks up state. How can the Cincinnati wets endorse Cooper, who two years ran on a dry platform and at the same time take an open stand for personal liberty?

As long as the Anti-Saloon League stays in its place and attempts to defend prohibition measures there is no chance for argument but when the League attempts to put Begg down as wet, then dry folks will find just ground for criticism. Holding Cooper up as a dry in the face of the Hamilton endorsement Monday for personal liberty puts the League in a tight place.

Begg has the personal endorsement of many W. C. T. U. leaders in Ohio, our leading educators and a number of ministers yet the League politicians endeavored last week to blacken Begg as wet. From information at hand the League has not taken any action but politicians in charge are trying to deliver for their millionaire candidate, Myers Y. Cooper. The League politicians have a greater fondness for the Cooper bank account and to check Begg had to list him as wet in the hope the public would swallow statements without investigation.

SUMMER HEALTH TALKS

SUNSTROKE
Sponsored by the Ohio Public Health Association

Knowing the right thing to do, and doing it promptly is often necessary. It is never more necessary than in dealing with a case of sunstroke.

Sunstroke usually comes on suddenly. Its victim is practically always someone doing muscular work outdoors, under a hot sun, and in a humid atmosphere. A man may be feeling well. He may have a touch of headache but nothing annoying enough to demand much attention. In two or three minutes he may be unconscious. He will have a high fever, and may or may not have convulsions.

There are two things to remember in making the diagnosis. The patient is always deeply unconscious. There is always high fever.

Treatment must be immediate but never stimulative. No person can endure fever as high as is the fever in sunstroke very long, and live. If ice is at hand, put an icebag on the patient's head and rub his body with ice. If it is impossible to get ice quickly, put the patient in a cold bath and watch to see that he does not drown. When the temperature is down to 101 the treatment should be stopped. The patient may recover consciousness in half an hour or so. He is generally out of danger in two or three days.

Heat exhaustion is an entirely different matter. It is due to heart failure caused by too much heat and too little vitality. The patient is indoors, usually. He has no temperature and he is usually not unconscious. The treatment consists in getting him to a cooler place, in keeping him quiet, and in giving mild stimulation.

Apoplexy and epilepsy both produce unconsciousness. In epilepsy there is no fever, but there may be fever in apoplexy.

Automobile Overturns On Columbus Pike

A Hudson car owned by Robert Arrington, Latonia, Ky., overturned at the Smith crossing on the Columbus Pike last Sabbath, doing considerable damage to the car and injury to the occupants. Beside Mr. Arrington were his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Case of South Gate, Ky. Members of the party were more or less cut and bruised. The accident happened a few minutes before the West bound bus appeared and they were released from the car and taken to Xenia for treatment by Dr. Paul Espey.

Pay Too Much For Food On The Farm
Sunday School Lesson
Lesson for July 22
PAUL'S EARLY MINISTRY

Nobody would accuse the farmer of eating too much, but there is evidence that he spends too much money for food. As compared with the income of the industrial family living in the city, the farm family's income suffers heavier inroads for food, and is called on to supply less clothing. But this doesn't tell the whole story, because the cost of some of the food which is consumed by the farm family is in the form of labor and land—that is, much of the food is produced on the farm where it is consumed.

According to statistics in the possession of the rural economics department of the Ohio State University, the average Ohio family with an income of less than $2500 a year spends from 30 to 50 per cent of that income for food. The farm family usually spends 40 per cent or more of its income for food—including expenditure of time and effort in producing some of the food.

About half of the food which the family consumes is produced on the home farm, thus calling for the expenditure of about 20 per cent of the cash income of the family, for manufactured articles of food. Considering that the principal business of the farmer is to produce food, this seems too much to Miss Lella Agie, nutrition specialist in the Extension Service of the Ohio State University.

Green vegetables, either direct from the garden or stored, fresh milk and eggs and milk products; fruits in various forms—these are the things which Miss Agie believes should go to the tables of the rural homes in Ohio, to replace foodstuffs which have been purchased with that very scarce article, cash.

Furthermore, there is a strong tendency toward the use of ready-prepared and cooked cereals and breakfast foods, which are more expensive than the kinds that have to be cooked, Miss Agie says.

Farm families are frequently subsisting with fewer green vegetables than the dietitian would recommend. Miss Agie has discovered this from the reports of farm women who engage in some of the county projects assigned by the county home agents and the extension specialists. Consumption of milk on the farm is far below what it should be for health of the farm family, aside from the fact that the milk is available on the farm without the expenditure of cash.

In the matter of desserts there is a notable tendency to eat desserts which have been bought or into which many manufactured ingredients have gone, rather than to use the fresh or canned fruits and their juices, which came from the very farm where they are being eaten.

Miss Agie insists that from the standpoint of health and economy, the farm menu needs revision, with more emphasis upon the things which grow on the farm itself.
